God's providence in Esther:

- Esther is chosen despite being one of many who vied for the king's attention.
- Mordecai just happens to hear of the plot against the king's life and warns the king through Esther of the plot.
- Even though the king forgets to reward Mordecai at the time, the king at just the right time is reminded of Mordecai's good deed and rewards him just as Haman is about to ask to hang Mordecai.
- Haman is hanged on the gallows intended for Mordecai.
- Esther just happens to be in perfect situation to ask for protection for her people.
- King Ahasuerus holds out his golden scepter to Esther instead of punishing her for coming before his presence uninvited.
